Program

AUDIENCE: K-12 TEACHERS ARE ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND THIS SESSION.

What exactly is critical thinking? Most people would define themselves as critical thinkers, few can actually define what critical thinking is. Go deeper down the rabbit's hole to explore this key 21st Century Competency. Unveil misconceptions about critical thinking and examine how learning experiences can promote critical thinking. Participants will actually go through a critical thinking process to create an original solution, while the facilitator models how the teaching and assessing of critical thinking can be infused along the way.

This learning opportunity is being offered through curriculum implementation funding from Alberta Education.

Presenters

Charity Allen

is a creative leader focused on innovation in education. She serves as President and CEO of PBLC, a consulting group empowering Deeper Learning. She has years of experience as a passionate educator, consultant, leadership coach, and professional development designer and facilitator. She is slightly fanatical about Deeper Learning and stays focused on empowering powerful teaching and learning through Project-Based Learning, gamification, STEAM and more. The breadth of her consulting work has been vast: 7 countries and over 20 states, 3 provinces, 50 districts, and 100 schools.
