

Indigenous Literature Day with David Bouchard (French)

Presented By: David Bouchard

Fee: $55.00 (Includes lunch)

Date(s) & Time(s)

October 08, 2019: 9:00 AM - 3:30 PM

Venue:

Executive Royal Hotel - 2828-23 Street NE

About the Session

AUDIENCE: K-12 EDUCATORS, SUPPORT STAFF, PARENTS AND ADMINISTRATORS ARE INVITED TO ATTEND.

Join us in a day of celebrating literacy with author David Bouchard, as he shares his journey as a literacy leader and advocate of the Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action. K-12 educators, support staff, parents and administrators are invited to attend this learning opportunity with the focus on Indigenous literature for all learners. David's message includes; "We must support our educators who will be asked to share how our country acted towards, reacted to and significantly impacted our First People. Together, we must help them and share the responsibility of explaining our history to our youth." David Bouchard has come to understand that the ultimate challenge for Indigenous people is to succeed in a system where reading is a prerequisite by creating a culture of belonging and sharing through story. As a storyteller and sought after speaker, David is proud of his Metis heritage and continues to be a community leader in Greater Victoria on Vancouver Island.

This session will be presented in French.

About the Presenter(s)

David Bouchard is one of Canada's foremost motivational speakers. For the past fifteen years, his keynotes have been the highlights of teacher and administrator conferences the world over. David is one of Canada's experts on literacy and reading. He is also a Métis person committed to improving the lives of Canada's Aboriginal people. The author of over fifty books, many in Native languages, was named to the Order of Canada. He was a teacher and school administrator for twenty-seven years.